Leader of the Superbia Belt region and head of The Infinite Serpent, Shahel's one true goal is to revolutionize the world of draconic order. As all he does is to that end, concepts such as good and evil are foreign to him. Though he has a particular interest in the culture of "food" humans have developed from their instinct to consume and survive.

Found dying from his own overwhelming Alchemic power in a slum, Li Wang was picked up by Projekt Goetia as a guinea pig for their bonding experiments. Having survived the ordeal, he saw it as an opportunity to climb the social ladder, not wanting to live another day poor and weak. His tenacious efforts paid off when he was named Finance Marshal for the organization, as well as the Head of the Greed Dike branch. However, Li Wang's ambitions do not end there; he will not be satisfied until he takes over the Director's seat.

Ren is a very skilled swordsman in the Scarlet Flame Guard. His mannerisms are a little unusual due to his highly specialized upbringing by the assassins of the Black Star Clan. After meeting Vettel and Gerald of the Scarlet Flame Guard, he finds new possibilities for his skills beyond that of assassination.

Diane is a member of the Seven Deadly Sins, brought here from a place in another world called the Kingdom of Liones. Her sin to bear is that of the Serpent Sin of Envy. She works as a waitress for the Boar Hat. Though Giants are known for being very warlike, she stands out for being gentle and pure of heart, disliking unnecessary combat.

Dark Mira is an irregular Fallen who was called forth by cobbling together many different possibilities. She bears the deadly sin of Sloth. Her diligent and can-do attitude has been warped into an impatient and selfish one. She is loath to put effort into things, her personality having become twisted as she has strayed onto a path of corruption.

A very ambitious student of Envylia's boarding school, studying to be a knight. Though he admires his older brother Fraise, who is already a knight, and appreciates everything he does for him, Gino cannot help but rebel against him, and boldly claims that he will surpass his brother someday. He has a kind soul, but tends to act like a simple delinquent.

Gane doesn't come from the most honorable of families, but he's a knight who's said to come from a bloodline with control over hidden beasts. He's a calm young man, raised by his family according to ideals of loyalty and moderation. It is said however, that he actually has burning ambitions, and that he doesn't want to end up innocent and achieving nothing in life like his father.

Kevin is a telekinetic who considers making girls and women smile to be more important than anything else. This stems from his inability to put a smile on his mother's face. He once agonized over what purpose his powers served, but a certain gem dealer motivated him to remember his true calling once more. He possesses powerful telekinetic abilities, but rather than using them in combat, he far prefers using them to bring a smile to a lady's face.

Eira is a shy fox spirit who wandered the woods accompanied only by her familiars. She only remembers that she spent her days playing in her room and performing tests for researchers. However, a disaster occurred, and she fled the collapse of the only home she had ever known, lost and alone. While wandering listlessly, she came across a peaceful village near the mountains and has since lingered nearby, watching the villagers go about their everyday lives.

Zehn is a man who is known as the Veda Templar's "Number Ten." He continues to fight out of the half-belief, half-hope that he will be able to get back his wife and daughter if he discovers "the truth." This almost delusion-like conviction is what won him the help of the "legendary blacksmith" who was said to take orders from no one.

Yauras is the captain of the 1st Regiment of the Holy Guard. She's an amazing swordfighter, boasting both intelligence and beauty. Though she hasn't realized this herself, it's said that she has a lot of hidden fans among the Guard, regardless of gender. She secretly fell in love with her rival Cadanova, and she's still endeavoring to keep up with him.

Tethys is the daughter of a famous family that legend says are descended from merpeople. She is able to communicate with the ocean, and because of this some people say that she is in fact the sea incarnate. She's extremely fussy about hygiene, and dislikes being touched, even by her parents. The one exception to this seems to be a person called Perez, who she can sometimes be seen walking around holding hands with.

She is able to communicate with the ocean, and because of this some people say that she is in fact the sea incarnate. She's extremely fussy about hygiene, and dislikes being touched, even by her parents. The one exception to this seems to be a person called Perez, who she can sometimes be seen walking around holding hands with.

Annika is a young girl from the Saga Region who serves a shrine maiden-like role. She's adept at sensing the flow of energy in the land, and is in charge of her clan's affairs. The reason she's always dressed so close to her birthday suit is that she doesn't like placing fabric between her skin and nature. Aside from these exhibitionist tendencies, though, in all other respects she's as shy as the next girl.

Chat Noir is a phantom thief with a cat-cyborg appearance whose name is known across the continent. The only thing that's really known about him is that he always sends a warning letter with a cat mark on it before stealing works of art. He's taken something of a liking to Justin of the Civil Guard, and makes a point of teasing him.

Itsuki is a young girl who was known in Wadatsumi as a "demon." In the past she was persecuted by humans, and it was to keep herself hidden that she first set foot in the underworld. She claims that her cheerful, amiable personality is all an act; a persona that she assumes in order to get by in the human world—it actually is in fact her natural disposition, though.

Chiruru is a girl from Saga who dreams of becoming a bard. Though she's a good singer, she can't perform well before others because of her shyness and tendency to be a cry-baby. She once let her voice go rampant while she was empowering it with Alchemia particles, and that naturally made her feel negative about performing. It is said that she can only sing without nerves in front of her childhood friend Aruba.

Mikoto is a priestess from Wadatsumi. Wadatsumi priestesses act as the voice of the Gods, so Mikoto possesses strong divine powers, as well as the ability to tell prophecy. Having spent so much time at her shrine and not having had much opportunity to interact with people, as a counter-reaction, she's developed a true love for chatting. If she ever has visitors and there's even a small chance to talk, she quickly turns into an ultra-chatterbox.

Hobbies	Thievery and developing new medical techniques

Alexis runs a clinic at a little village in the Saga Region. Always in fear of something, he needs his tranquilizer drip to relax, though he's trusted by the people in the village because of his expert medical skills. It's said that he's developing new medicine in his free time, but no one knows what it's for.

Hobbies Traveling, collecting rare items
Elrike is a merchant from Envylia, and she's amazed at seeing the value of all sorts of items. Because of her good heart however, she offers her goods for very cheap prices, so she doesn't earn much. She's helpful to most people, but she doesn't have any mercy for anyone who intends to abuse her good will from the get-go.

Fung Liu is an undead being who has been resurrected countless times through occult magic. He was originally a young man fighting for the special forces of Greed Dike. He was a slaughter machine who had lost every trace of emotions. When he met Polin in Lustburg, he started regaining his humanity. Since he's extremely sensitive to cold, he has a really hard time in snowy regions.

Ennis is a researcher of medicinal plants, smart enough to enter the University of Magic of Lustburg, but she chooses to devote herself completely to her research, deep in the woods. She's not so good with people, and she thinks it's better to do her research by herself. Even when she comes across people, she often talks to them in a despising way.
